

THE LAZY PHILOSOPHER'S GUIDE TO JAMES JOYCE AND ULYSSES

[WEEKDAY COURSE]

Dates

25 - 25 April 2022

Starts Monday after dinner at 8.30pm.

Ends Wednesday with lunch at 1pm.

Venue

Dillington House

Ilminster

Somerset

TA19 9DT

Fees

£358 single room | £418 double room - shared occupancy | £240 non-residential

Level

Beginners to Intermediate

Description

This, the centenary year of the publication of James Joyce's Ulysses, is the perfect time to explore his celebrated novel. Joyce stated "The demand that I make of my reader is that he should devote his whole life to reading my works." He has indeed been responsible for a vast amount of scholarship surrounding his oeuvre. Tracing his life, and using Ulysses as our guide, we will shed light upon Joyce's intriguing and sometimes perplexing work.

Outline

Day One

Introduction, Life & Context

Day Two

The Story of a Modern(ist) Masterpiece and Classic Learning and Popular Culture

Telemachus at the Tower and Bloom the (Anti) Hero

The Sirens and Citizen Cyclops

Film: Ulysses [1967]

Day Three

Eumaeus and The Return to Ithaca

Literary Styles, Molly Bloom Speaks and Conclusion

Essential Reading

James Joyce's novel Ulysses

Booking

To book a place on this course, please ring Dillington House on 01460 258 648, or email

info@dillington.com

darrenharper.net