Description

The early C20th saw a strong divergence between the analytic philosophy in Britain, and Continental (or European) philosophy, the former seeking certainty in logic and language. In this course we will explore the impact this had upon the philosophy of Russell and Wittgenstein in particular, before concluding the course with Heidegger.

Outline

Week One	Bertrand Russell
Week Two	Ludwig Wittgenstein
Week Three	Martin Heidegger

Suggested Reading

The History of Philosophy by A.C. Grayling
