

THE LAZY PHILOSOPHER'S GUIDE TO KNOWLEDGE

[HALF DAY COURSE]

Date

Thursday 11th August 2022
10am until 1pm

Venue

Morpeth Methodist Church
Howard Terrace
Morpeth
NE61 1HU

Fee

£22

Level

Beginners to Intermediate

Description

Formerly philosophy was the preserve of PhDs and the intellectually precocious, until now. In this day course we will disinter a little of philosophy's hermetic meaning as we tackle the question: How do we know that we know what we know? Using lectures and discussion, we will explore the theory of knowledge (epistemology), including René Descartes' famous 'Cogito, ergo sum'.

Outline

10am - 11.25am	Introduction to Knowledge
11.25am - 11.35am	Break
11.35am - 1pm	Descartes' 'Cogito, ergo sum'

Suggested Reading

Philosophy: A Very Short Introduction by Edward Craig

Booking

To book a place on this course please email darrenharper.esq@gmail.com

darrenharper.net